two co-opted members.

Mr. Houlder, of Messrs. Houlder Bros., is responsible for shipping and matters connected with it not dealt with by the London Shipowners' and Transport Workers' Military Service
Committee.

Mr. Hodder Williams has been co-opted as a member of the Advisory Committee to deal with cases connected with the publishing business.

The members of the Advisory Committee meet twice a week.

Applications connected with the smaller miscellaneous City businesses pass through the military representative's office, and, failing an agreement, go on to the tribunal. In this way it will be seen that the recruiting work in the City is handled in a most business-like and efficient way.

EARLY LAXITY REMEDIED.

Associated with the Advisory Committee is the London Shipowners' and Transport Workers' Military Service Committee, which is now dealing with the transport workers under the new conditions instituted by the Board of Trade. There has been a great deal of looseness in granting exemptions to transport workers early in the war. It has now been decided that new certificates must be issued by the Board of Trade, otherwise transport workers will be called up after August 1 next. The Transport Workers' Military Service Committee has therefore been set up to revise the whole list.
The duty of the committee is to see that not only are men of military age not retained in the Port of London in excess of the required number, but also that sufficient men are kept available for the efficient service of the port.

The committee consists of the military representatives, Major Rothschild and Lieut. Montgomery, members of the Advisory Committee, representatives of the Board of Trade, the Port of London Authority, the London General Shipowners' Society, dock employers' committees, the London Chamber of Commerce, and other associations connected with the port, including representatives of the stevedores, lightermen, and labour representatives. Five sub-committees have been formed to deal with different branches of the trade of the port, and agreements are come to between the committee and the employers and the men on the same lines as in the case of other departments of City recruiting, with this difference, that the certificates are issued by the Board of Trade.

Like all certificates, they are issued temporarily, as the terms may have to be reviewed according to the exigencies of the war. The Transport Workers' Military Service Committee will have to deal with about 50,000 cases.

These sub-committees represent the bankers, the insurance companies, the metal trades, the Law Society, the Corn Exchange, the chartered accountants, Lloyd's, the Stock Exchange, and the meat market. These committees deal with all applications and recommend exemptions. If they consider such are necessary in the national interest.

Applicants whose claims are not entertained can, of course, have the right of personal appeal to the tribunal. Exemptions or postponements recommended by the committees require the endorsement of the military representative.

Major Rothschild's Military Advisory Committee consists of the following public spirited City business men who have undertaken the responsibility of dealing with other special branches of City business.

Mr. Howard Williams, of Messrs.
Hibbert, Williams and Co., who undertakes the investigation of cases connected with the textile industries.

Sir Henry Buckingham is responsible for the newspapers and printing trades.

Mr. Wheeler-Bennett deals with cases in the provision trade, besides which he acts as the chairman of the Kent Tribunal.

Employees of smaller banks who are not represented by the sub-committees on banking are dealt with by Mr.

Frank Chapman, of Messrs. Roberts, Lubbock and Co.

Mr. Figgis, of Messrs. S. Figgis and Co., takes charge of the trades associated with Mining-lane, tea, rubber, etc., and is assisted by Mr. G.
Lechlan Porter and Mr. Duncan, two co-opted members.

Mr. Houlder, of Messrs. Houlder Bros., is responsible for shipping and mat-
by the London Shipowners' and
Committee.

Mr. Hodder Williams has been co-opted as a member of the Advisory Committee to deal with cases connected with the publishing business.

The members of the Advisory Committee meet twice a week.

to the tribunal. In this way it will be seen that the recruiting work in the City
efficient way.

EARLY LAXITY REMEDIED.

Associated with the Advisory Committee is the London Shipowners' and Transport Workers' Military Service Committee, which is now dealing with the transport workers under the new conditions
instituted by the Board of Trade. There
early in the war. It has now been
transport workers will be called up after August 1 next. The Transport Workers'
Military Service Committee has therefore been set up to revise the whole list.
The duty of the committee is to see that
not only are men of military age not
efficient service of the port.

The committee consists of the military
representatives, Major Rothschild and Lieut. Montgomery, members of the Advisory Committee, representatives of the Board of Trade, the Port of London
Authority, the London General Ship-
owners' Society, dock employers' committees, the London Chamber of Commerce, and other associations connected

ORIGIN OF THE PERISCOPE.

The origin of the periscope is now under discussion, and the following extract from the writings of the well-known inventor of "Pepper's Ghost" gives the credit to the clerical profession. Pepper wrote soon after the Crimean War—

"During the siege of Sebastopol 'ammunition' of our best artillerymen were continually picked off by the enemy's rifles as well as by cannon shot, and in order to put a stop to the inhumanity and wantonness of the man, a very ingenious contrivance was invented by the evered William Taylor, the conductor of Mr. Denison in constructing the first 'Dig Ben' bell. It was called the reflecting spy-glass, and by its simple construction rendered the exposure of the sailors and soldiers, who would look over a parapet or other parts of the works, observe the effect of their shot, perfectly unnecessary; while another form was constructed for the purpose of allowing the gunner to 'lay' or 'aim his gun safely. The instruments were shown Lord Panmure, who was so convinced of the importance of the invention that he immediately commissioned the Reverend William Taylor to have a number of these telescopes constructed; and, if the siege had not terminated just at the time the invention was to have been used, no doubt a great saving of the valuable lives of the skilled artillerymen would have been effected."
